Borders –

The borders are made from the remaining 6.5” by 42” background fabric cuts.

Small Quilt -

(5) 6.5” by 42” cuts

Step 1. Take one of these and cut it into (4) equal pieces

Step 2. Sew each of the pieces from Step 1 to one of the remaining 6.5” by 42” pieces

Step 3. Trim each of these units to 6.5” by 48.5”

Side Borders

Step 4. Sew (2) of the units from Step 3 to either side of your quilt. Press to the border.

Top and Bottom Borders

Step 5. Sew the other (2) units from Step 3 to the top and bottom of your quilt.

Press to the border

Large Quilt -

(7) 6.5” by 42” cuts

Side Borders

Step 1. Take (4) of these. Sew (2) strips with two of the cuts in each strip

Step 2. Trim each of these strips to 6.5” by 72.5”

Step 3. Sew to either side of your quilt. Press to the border.

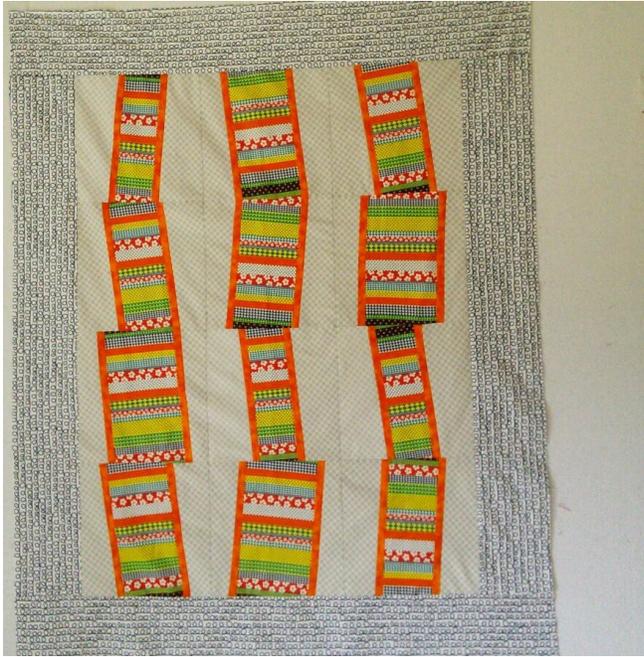

Top and Bottom Borders

Step 4. Cut (1) 6.5” by 42” cut in half

Step 5. Sew each half to the two remaining 6.5” by 42” Strips

Step 6. Trim to 6.5” by 60.5”

Step 7. Sew to the top and bottom of your quilt. Press to the border.

Small Quilt -

This was my “test quilt”.

Instead of making my own liberated panels I used a striped fabric.

I didn't have enough gray fabric to do the borders so I borrowed an idea from some liberated quilters, Freddy Moran and Gwen Marston.

They use a lot of directional fabric in their borders and sashes.

Large Quilt -

I made this quilt using African fabrics in my liberated panels.

A friend is celebrating her 50th birthday soon and just returned from an extensive trip to Africa.

I think she will like it.
